

Do you or the people in your office sometimes suffer from neck or eye strain?

If you answered “Yes”, you might want to consider adding Monitors or Laptop Supports to workstations. Monitor and Laptop Supports:

- Help you position your screen inside an optimal viewing window:
 - Height - Center of screen should be below eye level (15-25 degrees)
 - Distance - Approximately an arm's length away (20-35 inches)
- Eliminates dangerous risk factors:
 - Neck flexion (your screen is too low)
 - Neck extension (your screen is too high)

Do you and your co-workers most often use a Monitor or a Laptop?

- Monitor
- Laptop (if laptop skip to page 2)

If a Monitor, does your organization have corner or standard workstations?

- A. Corner
- B. Standard

If the answer is A, recommend the Fellowes® Smart Suites™ Corner Monitor Riser (Staples # 821440).
